

Follett Destiny and Collection for the Future Ready Librarian

About: One of the most important things we, as Future Ready Librarians, can bring to our students, teachers and school community, is the opportunities for collaboration and sharing resources. Through Destiny and with Collections by Destiny, the opportunities we have to do this are endless! In this keynote, Shannon McClintock Miller will share the importance of collaboration with teachers and students and what this can bring to a school community by sharing stories, resources and ways to make this happen in exciting and successful ways. You will leave this day, with lots of ideas and inspiration to do the same within your library and community too!
